U.S. Army

4th Infantry Division, Special Troops Battalion

Commander's Corner

By Lightning 6

Greetings again from Kuwait! We have completed our training requirements in Kuwait and are now preparing our soldiers, vehicles, and equipment to move north. Our soldiers did very well in the training they conducted, accomplishing all tasks professionally and safely.

The weather here turned windy and rainy for a couple of days. There is nothing major, just some short bursts. There was a bazaar in one of the large tents over the weekend. Our soldiers could browse and choose items from a variety of local vendors. The dining facilities here extended their meal hours to help reduce some of the long lines that were beginning to form as the population of the camp increased. The extended hours helped and the lines went down some.

The soldiers from The Division Troops Company and D Company are doing a great job running the Division Tactical Operations Center here at Camp Buehring. They are supported with communications from a platoon in A Company that is doing equally well.

The Battalion's Headquarters and Headquarters Company is doing a terrific job supporting the Battalion's TOC and our support operations in Kuwait.

The Band played a holiday concert for the camp last week and another concert over the weekend at a different camp. They played a variety of seasonal music and ended the show with the 4ID march.

We have gained a new unit to the Battalion - a Mobile Public Affairs Detachment - that will be working in direct support of the Division's Public Affairs Officer.

That's all for this update. All of you can be very proud of your soldiers. They are doing a superb job every day. Thank you for your continued support. Keep us in your thoughts and prayers as we are keeping you in ours.
